If you're a game journalist with a need for speed, then @TheReapr is your ticket to the wild ride that is League of Legends. Secret World Legends The Secret World Legends. Examination of species-specific sex pheromone components in the fungus-growing ant fungus-growing ant, Acromyrmex echinator. Both chemical and behavioral investigations showed that the fungus-growing ant Acromyrmex echinator produces a male-specific sex pheromone that is composed of the alcohols (Z)-3-hexen-1-ol and (Z)-3-hexen-1-ol acetate. Neither the crude pheromone nor the pure sex pheromone mixture elicited any behavioral responses from male ants, including aggression and rejection. Furthermore, the worker ants showed no response to the crude pheromone. By comparison, we observed an increase in behavioral responses (attack and rejection) from the workers when the crude pheromone was dispersed in a small area. All three major mass spectra identified in the chemical composition (Z)-3-hexen-1-ol acetate matched with the highest calculated mass spectrum, and only two minor mass spectra matched with the experimentally found most abundant mass spectrum of this compound. All other minor mass spectra with higher or lower abundances were assigned to (Z)-3-hexen-1-ol. We also tested the behavioral activity of the individual compound (Z)-3-hexen-1-ol acetate. Although both Z-3-hexen-1-ol and its acetate showed no behavioral responses in our test, (Z)-3-hexen-1-ol acetate was the best stimulus for the ant's rejection response. This compound may be used for future behavioral testing.
